1. Dibazol is a drug of Soviet production and is available only in very small quantities in Poland. It is not on sale at pharmacies and only a few hospitals have it on hand for use in tests. Polish doctors have no confidence in this medicine, as is the case with the majority of Soviet drugs. Dibazol is applied in hospital treatments.
2. Written consent for the application of this drug must be given by the doctor in charge of the case, the doctor in charge of the department, and the director of the hospital. The hospital dispensary issues the daily dose of this medicine only on the strength of the above three doctors' signatures.
3. Cure by this drug takes a long time, therefore cannot as yet state its effective practical value. 25X1
